It's about time the anti-capitalists in Washington got off the backs of the people making this country what it is, a country in which most intelligent people applaud those who work their tails off to create jobs. But there are supposedly intelligent people who decry the individuals who create jobs in this country. As usual the settlement resulted in the lawyers pocketing the dough. When will the politicians in Washington get it through their heads to put the brakes on the trial lawyers in this country? Enough is enough.
